Test Case 4:

Input:

```
{
  var hello = "outer hello";
  {
    var hello = "inner hello";
    print hello;
  }
  print hello;
}
print hello;
```

Expected Output:

```
inner hello
outer hello
Undefined variable 'hello'.
[line 9]
```

The tester will assert that the stdout of your program matches the format above, and that the exit code is 0. Accessing a variable outside of its scope should throw a runtime error, the exit code in that case should be 70.
